Let's face it, a lot of games these days are repetitive and boring. I know I know, let's just play a 3D volleyball game. I'm trying to say something more than that. This is a fine line between a realistic simulation and a just an ordinary volleyball game, and I think I've managed to capture both of those "essences" in this game. What's the point? This is basically a multiplayer volleyball game. There are 2, 4, or 6 vs. 6 teams. One team goes against the other team, and one team plays against itself. Think of it like a sport that you can play with your friends. How does it work? Simple. You use your keyboard to select your team and click on the sides of your screen to position your player. You control speed and direction of play by pressing the right and left arrow keys. Right and left arrow keys are used to move your ball up and down, and pressing the up arrow key causes your player to jump high while pressing the down arrow key causes your player to jump low. When you're playing the game, you can also press the 1, 2, or 3 on the gamepad to switch between teams. Here's a video of someone playing with a keyboard and mouse: If you move your cursor around the game using the mouse, it's going to be slow, and tedious. If you turn the mouse off, it will be easy, but not fun, to play. If you use the keyboard and mouse, it's going to be easy, but not fun, to play. So, I created the game so that it's possible to play it with a controller. You can also select between 4 and 6 teams, which means you have a wider variety of action as well. What else is in the game? In every game there is a practice mode. You can either select a full game or the practice mode. When you select the practice mode, you're able to use any player on your team, even when you're playing a game. You can also play with 1, 2, 3, or 4 players. When you're playing in the practice mode, you can change your settings like the field size and number of teams. You can also choose between playing the game in 3D, 2D, or 1D if you'd rather speed it up. A 1D mode means the ball will bounce extremely slow but it won't have any air. Developer - Veque This thread will host information about the New Survivor's Armor Skin! Please check out the Survivors thread for more information on how to reserve your unclaimed armor. --- Preview The new Solstice Armor skin is here (just like you've been dying to see...), and the Survivors team is really pleased with it. Each survivor sent us a piece of armor they were really looking forward to using on their new character. There's a lot to unpack in these skins. It took the team of our Art team, our QA team, the Company team and the Solstice Operations team four months to get them just right. The execution was top-notch - we're really happy with the results. Please note: the skin will show up all over official channels as soon as the costume batch is available. --- What You Can Expect From This Skin The first thing you'll see when you get your hands on the Executor skin is what's called the "Forge Circle". This circle is the first step in the Soulcraft process that turns a corpse into a SHOOTER COMPANION, something taken even further in the Executor armor skin. With the Executor armor skin, you'll notice only pieces of the "Forge Circle" showing. This has to do with player location, selection and company validation as well as keeping it a surprise until the moment you find out your new armor has been transferred to your inventory. The final step is coming up in the next few weeks, which the team is really excited about. They want to bring the release closer to the actual launch so you can try your new armor on your new COMPANION in real game time. Keep your eyes peeled in early June! What You Should Be Tryng To Remember At the end of the day, you'll be able to swap it up freely, and you can be as creative as you like with your costume. And there's so much more, of course. Official News Blog Post Full Restoration Thread Videos Thank you, Executor Armor! (for reference, beta testers can get access to it at the time they qualify for ReQuesed Beta) — This thread will host information about the

Moving slowly underground is painful. Guilt is your worst enemy. Shame, anger, and hate against a slow painful death is a million times stronger than any shred of food for you. Determined and focused to survive, Clodomir awakes in the middle of an endless garbage heap. At first, his mission is: avoiding being eaten by the hungry. Then, he will need to move in the deep caves, avoiding the natives, find the exit, and return to the surface. During the journey, you will get hints to guide you. You will be trapped into going through the plot, and story related puzzles if you fail to read every single hint. This is not an old school game, because we don't consider it as such. We've got a lot of great humor and challenges in store. Still, reading every single hint will provide you with all information necessary to accomplish the game in an easy way. Hope you will have fun as we have done. Please Note: This game is a work in progress. We will release updates as we can. We are on Steam Greenlight and we hope to be on Steam Market at the end of 2018. Bio: Pavel is a Bulgarian game developer who got into game development about 5 years ago. In his previous life, he was a manager at a software company, where he got his first experience of game development. He is passionate about creativity, story and design. He finished his first Unity course in Bratislava, Slovakia. Adrian - Wafflenerv says: I just finished playing this awesome point and click adventure. I enjoyed this game a lot and I recommend it to all of you. I'm glad you found the game enjoyable. Do you have any favorite puzzles in particular, or any puzzles you'd like to see again? I'm very excited to hear more about your thoughts, Adrian! -Wafflenerv AlpsDaze says: I finished the game just this past Monday, a lot of fun, and yet challenging too. I truly enjoyed this game, in fact I almost purchased it a few times, the story, graphics, and the puzzles were enjoyable, I liked them and I'm going to give the game a 9/10 because overall I recommend this to everyone. Spiderson2 says: It doesn't make sense though, the guy's got a bag and there's no food in
