While the actual solution doesn't have to be so long, the way you write it makes it look like you don't know the language well enough to be able to write sentences that make any sense. PITTSBURGH -- As his Cincinnati Bengals prepare for their fifth straight playoff game, running back Giovanni Bernard would probably like a word with quarterback Andy Dalton. If we told Bernard he could talk to Dalton at any point during practice, he'd be all about it. "At one point or another, definitely," Bernard said. "He's a good player, we can always talk. It's the best quarterback in the NFL right now. We're good friends, and he's always asking about me. He's always talking to me. I think he's the best quarterback to ever play this game. I think he's not only the best quarterback in the NFL but he's the best ever, and he's getting better every year and getting more comfortable. It's going to be a good battle up there." It's an interesting subplot for a game the Bengals have worked on so much. Over the past five weeks, they've seen Bernard enter the field twice at the goal line, once with 48 seconds to go awid a 16-13 loss to the Pittsburgh Steelers in week 17 and then with one play to go with the game tied, a touchdown pass to Giovani Bernard set up by Andy Dalton's pass to A.J. Green for a 46-yard field goal win over the Dallas Cowboys. Both times, the Bengals had to block for Bernard on an end-around run, with Cincinnati's sacking Bernard both times, pressuring him on the edge. The second time, Steelers defensive coordinator Keith Butler blocked for Bernard and lined up his teammates across the line of scrimmage to stop the play. The first time, it was a different theme. "We're making the same mistakes all over again," Bengals left tackle Cordy Glenn said. "We do the same thing over and over again with him. We know it's a problem. It's been a problem for years now. We need to take some time off from trying to call play-action on the goal line when I'm five yards from the goal line. We've done that so much that it's startin

Tuesday, 29 July 2009 I absolutely love this online store as they seem to have so many different items on their website. I decided to pick up the amazing hand dyed chiffon tie dye dress. The dress has great style and can really be dressed up or down and it can go with everything really. On the day I saw it in the shop they had this lovely floral wrap also that I'm hoping to see soon on the site, it's truly beautiful. I also decided to add the design to my backpack because it's a lovely print and is the same size and colour as the dress, so can go with it. In my opinion the dress is one to buy I just love the style of it and RENNA's clothing is just so well made and I love the fact they are trying to make clothes fit you better by being smaller. Monday, 14 July 2009 Apart from arriving all very well mended, the boots are now ready to go. I just had to get them out of the box and give them a good wash. I'm really pleased with them as they're so comfy and really great quality. One thing I'm finding as I'm growing into my boots is that sometimes my feet get the cold, or my toes get really cold but as they are new they are only as big as my foot is comfortable with them. These boots are so flexible I can walk all day and when the weather starts to warm up and they'll be perfect. From what I d0c515b9f4
