Activation !LINK!

A: This is a known issue for the XF16. This has been brought up before but does not seem to have been resolved. Please also consider the following: A lot of the software you are running requires the use of a serial number or license key that is sent to the manufacturer and is not accessible to you. In the case of the XF16, if you buy the product online you will get a 30 day free trial version. Upon expiry of the free trial, you will be able to activate your license and your system will then be registered. Note that the free trial does not give you any of the features that you normally would have access to. For instance, in my case I use the software for rendering and still have the features enabled when working on a project that I purchase a license for. {{ version }} About
